NUMBER 31

The Republican party in all the Northern States is well organized and in excellent condition. The Democratic party is not sufficiently convalescent to sit up.

The Legislature is spending most of its time in killing the bills it required a month to introduce. This is like the game of setting up wooden men for the fun of knocking them down.

This session of Congress will be known as the winning and dining session, and will continue more than six months. When there are no more conquests to make in that direction, Congress will adjourn.

On the 20th of this month, the six months of mourning which President Arthur fixed for Garfield's death, will expire, and then all the heavy black bordered paper upon which all official communications have been written at the White House, will be discarded.

There is not much hope that the Legislature will adjourn before the last week in March. There is yet a great amount of business to be done—at least a large number of bills to kill—and from the present indications an adjournment cannot be taken for two or three weeks. The joint committee on apportionment has agreed upon the Senate and Assembly districts, but the work is yet to come on the congressional apportionment, and while there may not be any great amount of wrangling over the districts, it will yet require considerable time for the committee to do its work in a manner which will satisfy the political interests in all parts of the State.

There are yet 350 bills in the hands of the committees on which no reports have been made. The capital punishment bill has been made a special order for next Tuesday. A careful canvass of the Assembly shows that there are 43 for the bill and 42 against it, with the balance uncertain. The interest bills have been killed as usual.

A very important letter written by General Garfield, while he was chief of staff to General Rosecranz, has come to light and makes some important revelations. Although Garfield and Rosecranz were trusted friends, they differed materially as to how the war should be prosecuted; and the fact that Rosecranz was very much like McClellan, never in a hurry to advance, displeased Garfield, and in 1863, wrote a kind letter to Salmon P. Chase, who was then Secretary of the Treasury, on the conduct of the campaign in the department of the Cumberland. In his eulogy on Garfield, Blaine delicately alluded to this condition of things. Whereupon Rosecranz rushed into print with a defense of himself and his generalship. Since the publication of letter to Chase, Rosecranz has been thoroughly worked up in his feelings, and has made the statement that he would have court-martialed Garfield had he known he had written such a letter. But history will corroborate Garfield's statements.

A GREED FOR RAILWAY PASSES.

It is not difficult for any one to divine the motives of the morning paper in Janesville in making its frequent and imbecile attacks on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway. The greed for railway passes, and a demand for more than its share of the compliments of that company, are the causes which lead to the oft-repeated and silly things which that paper indulges in toward the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul. It is nothing less than a bold attempt to extort from that corporation that which no other daily paper in the State is entitled to or has the unblinking cheek to demand. The paper peremptorily demanded three full annual passes over its lines, a demand that could not be consistently granted without doing a piece of favoritism which would have been an insult to every other daily paper in the State. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul company, which is never wanting in fairness and generosity, desired to be magnanimous, but that would not satisfy the insatiable greed of the paper, and then came the attacks.

But these ill-timed and unjust attacks are no more to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway company than a flea on a giant oak. It is the supreme selfishness and the spirit of evil that command attention and which the citizens of Janesville condemn. This is a time when that railway company should be thanked for what it has already done for the permanent good of the city, instead of being cursed for not squandering free passes. During the past two years the railways have done much for Janesville, and there is not a business man in the city who has the best interest of his home at heart who would countenance for a moment any attack on either of the roads entering this city. They are both to be praised for what they have done and encouraged for what they purpose to do in the future.

The Milwaukee and St. Paul railway company is one of the mighty corporations of this country, and yet in all its commanding greatness and far-reaching power, it has never failed to show a spirit of generosity toward the public. It is one of the most successful railway enterprises in this country and is doing as much toward developing the West, and making it possible to build up prosperous homes in the Territories, as any railway company in existence. For these things let the people give thanks.

WAR AT OMAHA.

OMAHA, Neb., March 10.—The dissatisfaction among laboring classes was more widespread to-day than at any previous time. All the men who heretofore struck are still holding out, and this morning all the men at the smelting works, both night and day gangs, quit work. They did not strike. They said to their employers that they were satisfied with the wages; but unless they quit work and joined the labor union they would undoubtedly be interfered with. Boyd's packing house also shut down.

It is a settled fact, although not officially announced, that President Arthur and the Secretary of War replied favorably to Governor Nance's request for government troops. A telegram to that effect was received here at midnight last night. Three companies (150 men) of regular infantry left Fort Sidney to-day in a special train, to arrive here at three o'clock to-morrow morning. These, with troops at Fort Omaha, will make a force strong enough to enforce law and order. An army officer close to General Crook says the plan is that, as soon as the Burlington and Missouri have a laboring force ready to go to work on the depot grounds, to station 100 regular troops, with a Gatling gun and howitzers, on the ground, and let the railroad men go to work. This will possibly be done to-morrow morning, or certainly Monday morning. The present aspect of affairs is very threatening.

Kidney Complaint Cured.
B. Turner, Rochester, N. Y., writes: "I have been for over a year subject to serious disorder of the kidneys, and often unable to attend to business; I procured your BUCKING BLOOD PURIFIER and was relieved before half a bottle was taken. I intend to continue, as I feel confident that they will entirely cure me." Price 50 cents, trial bottle 10 cents.

DEATH OF DWYER.

NEW YORK, March 10.—John J. Dwyer, the prize-fighter and ex-heavy-weight champion of America, died of consumption at St. Peter's hospital, Congress street, Brooklyn, shortly after 8 o'clock to-night. Dwyer, who was well known in sporting circles throughout the country, was born in Newfoundland, thirty-six years ago, and removed to Brooklyn with his parents when a boy. Several months ago a benefit performance was given for Mr. Dwyer at the Park theater, Brooklyn, and with the proceeds he was enabled to visit Florida. He returned to his home weary and wasted, a mere shadow of his former self, three weeks ago, and was admitted to St. Peter's hospital. He leaves a wife, but no children.

FIRES.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 10.—A fire in the carriage factory of J. F. Goodrich & Co., caused a loss of $60,000; insurance, $40,000.

DALLAS, Texas, March 10.—A fire at Decatur, Texas, yesterday, destroyed nine business houses on the East side of the public square.

WORCESTER, Mass., March 10.—and night.—The Alkali Block and Masonic Hall in Millbury are now burning. Aid has been sent from here.

THE TALE OF A RAT.

GENEVA, Ill., March 10.—The startling discovery has been made that on Tuesday the wife of a farmer living in Virgil township, gave birth to twins, and both infants were correspondingly marked with an unmistakable rat-tail on the left cheek. It is said that in the discharge of her domestic duties the mother recently caught in her sleeve an immense rat that had gained entrance to the flour barrel.

Mother Died of Salt Rheum.

J. W. Adams, Newark, Ohio, says: "Cuticura Remedies are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe Cuticura would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which were never relieved or cured until I used the Cuticura Remedies."

STEAMBOAT DISASTER.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, March 10.—A Gazette special from Parkersburg, W. Va., says the steamer Sidney, en-route from Cincinnati to Wheeling, when near Ripley Landing, W. Va., twenty miles above Pomeroy, at 4 o'clock this morning burst her main steam pipe, instantly killing Mrs. Kittle and her grandson, of Maysville, Ky., and fatally scalding Mrs. Stephenson, of Portsmouth, Ohio, wife of the pilot of the boat. The Times of the names of others scalded and injured more or less are:

Wm. C. Mills' wife and son, badly scalded. Wm. Mills cannot possibly live. They got on at Huntington, and registered for Bellaire.

A GHOST STORY.

NEW YORK, March 10.—The Herald's special from Raleigh, N. C., says: "There is a sensation at present among the people of Shelby, Cleveland county, owing to certain mysterious occurrences at the house of a man named Calaway Perry. Some months since William Taylor an aged man, died, and it is claimed that his spirit revisits the earth frequently. Perry's house is almost nightly the scene of strange and startling occurrences. Stones are cast against the sides of the building occasionally with great force. Perry and his family sometimes receive unseen blows, and are often addressed by mysterious and disagreeable voices. Perry shows to visitors the stones, large and small, which are picked up almost daily, some of them from within the house. They are even thrown through the cracks in the walls, and many fell on the bed where the sick wife of the dead man lay helpless. She died a few weeks ago. The people of the town hear strange noises, and are making efforts to discover the causes. It is said also that stones have been thrown at passers-by, and the house is looked upon with awe."

Joseph Durrinburger, Broadway, Buffalo, was induced by his brother to try THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL for a sprained ankle; and with half a dozen applications he was enabled to walk around again all right.

THE APPORTIONMENT.

Speech of Hon. C. G. Williams.
On the 23d of February, the House having under consideration the bill making an apportionment of Representatives in Congress, Mr. Sherwin having the floor, said:

I now yield five minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. Williams].

Mr. Williams, of Wisconsin. I am obliged to my friend for his courtesy. Five minutes will suffice for all I wish to say. When this question came in the higher mathematics it was involved in complication and mystery. The franks and fantastic tricks of figures worked wondrous results. Few understood them, and as for myself I claim to belong to that great and respectable majority of the House who had not the slightest comprehension of these processes. Planchette would be quite as reliable. When it came to decimals it was not entirely clear; but when our friend from Michigan [Mr. Burrows] brought it down to simple, vulgar fractions, we could all understand it. The principle that if you claimed and were entitled to half a man you should have a whole one, and if you were not entitled to half a man you should not claim any, seemed to be practical, common sense, and just. Now it is a little singular that while it did not affect his own state the gentleman from Michigan should have found a number—321—which, while it gave each state entitled to more than half a Representative, a full one, it gave no state which fell below that measure any claim to one.

But, sir, I did not rise to discuss these methods. They have been abundantly and ably discussed, and each doubtless has merits. Whether the number be 321 or 322, or whether it goes as high as 325, I do not believe any great practical injustice will be done. These representatives will be looked on in the new states of the Northwest and Texas and other states. It is nearly two years since the census was taken. Sir, two years is a generation in the growth of population in the young states of the new Northwest. We need have no fear of doing injustice on that line. Could the census be taken to-day, northern Wisconsin, with her forests pierced by new railroads, her mines opened up, her farms cleared, her ships afloat on the waters of Lake Superior, her docks, lumber camps and busy people, would show that she is amply entitled to the nine members whom I trust you purpose to give her. She only fell 400 behind the ratio entitling her to nine members, even on this new plan, as compared with Illinois.

What I say of Wisconsin, I am glad to be able to say with equal force of Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota, and the coming state of Dakota. Whoever has traveled in those states or that territory during the last summer has seen place after place rising as if by magic young cities as we call them in the Northwest, villages as you call them in the East—of 1,000 or 2,000 inhabitants, where three years ago not a single human habitation stood.

Now, sir, let us take 325, if that is the number, or any number, down to 320. This apportionment is for ten years. The tide of immigration is going like a torrent into these great and free and prosperous regions of our country, where justice will be appreciated and political power will never be abused.

One word in conclusion. I would have no desire if I could to cut any gentleman off in his remarks after courtesy accorded me; but I second the appeal of the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. Sherwin]. I hope the determination may prevail here that we sit through the night, even though we defer debate closes to-day, even though we defer the passage of this bill shall be passed. [Applause.] It is votes we want, not voices. Now, let us commence with 325 and see if we can agree on that; if not, let us continue to vote until we do agree; then send this bill to the Senate, and let it go thence to the waiting Legislatures, some of them in session and soon to adjourn. That is practical, and I hope the House may regard it as advisable. [Applause.]

Our Glorious Independence.

What can be more glorious than to be independent of suffering, caused by dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, sick-headache, or other diseases emanating from the stomach. This can be easily gained by a timely use of BUCKING BLOOD PURIFIER. Price $1.00, trial size 10 cents.

The Champion Potato.

Hon. L. B. Sildway, of this city, now visiting Scotland, sends The Times of the following slip from The Dundee Advertiser in relation to the shipment of potatoes to this country:

It will be seen that a steamer is to be said on at Dundee direct for New York, falling about the 8th inst., affording special facilities for the shipment of potatoes for America. The advantage to local shippers will be the saving of carriage to Glasgow—11s. 8d. per ton—besides the cartage from the station to the wharf. This must be paid out of pocket before shipment.

It is understood that the champion potato is preferred, and being largely grown in this district, farmers have no doubt large quantities ready for shipment. Those who have already exported are said to have received on the average about 12s. per ton more than they could obtain in the home market.

The following account of the champion potato will be useful to American friends:

It is now about ten years since the famous champion potato began to be generally cultivated in Forfarshire, where it originated. It was first raised from the plum in 1863 by Mr. Nicol, a gardener in that county. It passed from his hands in 1867, and made its appearance in field cultivation about 1871. From the very first the champion showed remarkable immunity from disease, a characteristic which it still maintains above all other varieties. It exceeds all others sorts in the amount of produce, eight or nine tons per acre being an unusual yield, on soil usually considered unsuitable for potato culture, while under more favorable conditions from twelve to fifteen tons per acre have been obtained. Though rather rough in its outward appearance, the champion is of firm texture and excellent flavor, containing a greater proportion of starch than any other variety cultivated in our fields. The champion is a strong grower both to haulm and root. Although essentially a late sort, and keeping on in good condition till the end of June, it is fit for use almost as soon as the potato. The champion spread very rapidly in the district where it was raised, and for several years past it has been planted to the almost complete exclusion of other sorts. It has also for some years past been very extensively grown in most districts of the United Kingdom and Ireland, and has spread into France, Germany, and other countries. An agricultural report for the district of Stockfield-on-Tyne, England, Dec. 6, 1881, says of the champion: "No new variety or any new crop introduced for many years has been such a boon to the country as the champion potato. It not only does well when grown on land which may be described as potato soil, but likewise on land which has been hitherto considered too stiff for the produce of potatoes of good quality. In consequence of the failure of potatoes by disease in Ireland in 1879, government passed a bill to enable guardians to furnish seed potatoes to the poverty-stricken farmers. Referring to this, Mr. Clark, an experienced and extensive grower of potatoes, said: 'If the guardians will only buy such well-known disease-resisting potatoes as the Scotch champion the present calamity will ultimately be converted into a blessing.' The guardians did as Mr. Clark suggested. And another Irish gentleman, writing at the close of 1881, says: 'The potato crop this year, sown from champion seeds from Scotland, has been beyond anything known since 1845, and has been more productive of satisfactory land relations than all else put together.'

A glass eye once figured in a civil trial. An optician sued a woman for the value of an eye he had inserted for her with the promise that she would find it both ornamental and useful. The woman declined to pay, her defense in court being as follows:

"I have false teeth; I can eat with them. I have false hair; it keeps my head warm and is ornamental. I have also a false leg; I can walk with it. But—taking her glass eye out and dashing it to the ground—I can neither see with my false eye nor is it an object of beauty." She gained her suit.—Philadelphia Press.

FARM NOTES.

The students at the Iowa College Farm last year made all the sugar they used, from orange cane. Iowa people are going largely into the making of sugar from sorghum.

It is found in my own experience that urine collected into tanks from fifty cows tied up during the winter months is sufficient to keep in a high condition several acres of most any land.—London Agricultural Gazette.

Insects as they relate to man are noxious, beneficial or neutral. Those ranked as beneficial may be directly beneficial, like the silkworm or honey bee, or indirectly beneficial as destroyers of noxious insects.

SPEAKING of the pioneers of cattle breeding, the Live Stock Record remarks: "The obstructions now in the way of breeders are by no means those which met Bakewell, Collings, Bates, and Booth. They had to lay the foundation and build from the ground up, while these are found ready to hand, and it only remains with the present breeder to keep them up to the standard of excellence of judicious crossing and true breeding."

COUNT THE COST.—No man is fit to manage a farm who does not think beforehand what is best to do, and which is the best way to do it. Work without thought, without plan, has been the blunder of many who pretend to be farmers. Raising crops without knowledge as to their cost, or thought as to whether they will sell or not, has snipped many a fortune. More forethought in the management of a farm is required than in most any other pursuit followed by man, and the forehand farmer is always the one who counts the cost, and closely calculates all matters that appertain to the farm, not that a farmer is necessarily obliged to make shifts and turns in order to succeed, but simply to count the cost.

BULKY HORSES.—It is rarely well to whip a kick or scold a bulky horse; it is the common practice. One of the best methods is to feed where he stands with any accessible food, such as oats, ears of corn, or even grass by the wayside, or hay from the wagon, which can be provided for the emergency. Forgetting his whim he will generally start without trouble. Another good way is to do something not harmful, but new, which will direct his thoughts, and before he knows it he will be jogging unconsciously along. Sometimes, if one can spare the day, it is best to wait till, from misadventure, the morning, the sunbats to the will of his driver, and the triumph in this instance is generally complete. In any event, it is poor policy to whip and abuse the animal, because it does no good.

INDICATIONS OF THE WEATHER.—The color of the sky at particular times affords wonderful good guidance. Not only a rosy sunset presages good weather, but there are other tints which speak with equal clearness and accuracy. A bright yellow sky in the evening indicates wind; a pale yellow wet; a neutral gray color constitutes a favorable one in the morning. The clouds are again full of meaning in themselves. If their forms are soft, undefined, full and feathery, the weather will be fine; if their edges are hard, sharp and definite, it will be foul. Generally speaking, any deep, unusual hues betoken wind and rain; while the more quiet and delicate tints bespeak fair weather. It is very true, however, that all signs in regard to the weather some times are deceptive and fail.

SELLING BY WEIGHT.—It cannot be denied but what the best way in disposing of articles from the farm is by weight. It is the only proper way; and why? Let us take eggs, for instance! A dozen of large eggs, under the present system of traffic, brings no more than a dozen of small ones. No one will pretend to say there is any justice in this. Then take potatoes or turnips, or peas or onions, or fruit of any kind. A son who understands "dark ways" can make, by measuring by the bushel or quart, a good deal more or less, according to interests that suit him. In all the berries sold in this market by the quart there is a leakage in the measure in most instances. Honest scales won't cheat. It is just as right to sell wool by the fleece as it is eggs by the dozen or hay by the load—as to sell potatoes, tomatoes, wheat, rye, barley, oats, corn, apples, berries by the quart or bushel. There is no justice in it, neither is there any representation in it. The only fair way in either buying or selling farm products is by the weight.

THERE is a good deal said about sheep breeding in this country, and the advantages respectively presented by the rassy mountain or Western prairie land for sheep culture are commented on by exchanges and correspondents. But Australia, it is probable, exceeds any other part of the world for sheep. The Governor's Gazette for Canterbury and Otago, New Zealand, gives a list of a few owners and flocks, as follows, in the colonies of the antipodes:

New Zealand and Australian Land Co., $36,000
Mr. Robert Campbell, 30,000
Mr. George Henry Moore, 20,000
Messrs. Dalgety & Co., 20,000
Messrs. Clifford & Widd, 20,000
Sir Dillon Bell, 20,000
Hon. William Robinson, 20,000
Sir Craofo Wilson, 20,000
Mr. E. H. Allen, 20,000
Mr. Allen McLean, 20,000

There are a number of millionaires among the Australian shepherds.

MR. J. C. WOOD, a farmer of Switzerland County, Indiana, says the best way of killing the common sheep sorrel in meadows is to treat it liberally with old brine. He says the rusty brine from old pork barrels is certain death to the sorrel—a fact worth knowing. Fresh salt brine is not so destructive to the sorrel.

HIGH FARMING.—High farming is a system of tillage and farm management that is self-sustaining, a system that takes nothing but the bare land, the domestic animals, the farm implements, sustains the family and the animals, pays the annual taxes, defrays the expenses incident to the improvements that must be made on the farm, cancels the annual interest on the money invested in the land, eventually pays for the land, all from the products of the soil cultivated; and after one, two or three decades of years, leaves every acre in a far better state of fertility than the soil was at the beginning. This is high farming. There are untold numbers of quiet, unobtrusive tillers of the soil in many of our States, who have commenced precisely as we have indicated, without one dollar of cash capital, who have had no revenue whatever besides the natural resources of their cultivated fields, and who have by hard work and judicious management sustained their families, paid for their lands, erected all of their buildings, paid for all their valuable improvements, and at the same time, have brought their land to that state of productivity by their judicious management, that every acre yields as much, if not more, than it did originally in state of nature. This is high farming. Yet such a system is often sneered at.

simply because the proprietor knew how to save his money to defray expense of improvements. There is no need of land becoming impoverished, even when it bears a crop every year. Proper cultivation with plenty of manure is the key to high farming.—Minneapolis Tribune.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

(From the Detroit Free Press Household.)

PIE CRUST FOR FOUR SMALL PIES.—One and a half cups lard, one cup cold water, three and a half cups flour; mix lard and flour together; add water last.

HOUSE RADISH SAUCE.—Two teaspoonfuls made mustard, two of white sugar, one-half teaspoonful salt, a gill of vinegar; mix and pour over grated horse radish. Excellent with beef.

VINEGAR PIE.—One cup sugar, one cup vinegar, one-quarter cup hot water, a piece of butter the size of a walnut, three tablespoonfuls flour; season with cinnamon and allspice.

MIXED PIE WITHOUT APPLES OR MEAT.—One cup sugar, one-half butter, one cup molasses, one cup vinegar, one cup chopped raisins, two cups warm water, four crackers rolled, two teaspoonfuls cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful cloves, one-half teaspoonful pepper.

BAKED DUCK.—To cook a duck satisfactorily boil it first, until tender; this can be determined by trying the wing, as that is always a tough part of a fowl. When tender take it out, rinse it in clean water, stuff and put it in the oven for about three-quarters of an hour, basting it often.

MADE MUSTARD.—Pour a very little boiling water over three tablespoonfuls of mustard; add one salt spoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of olive oil, stirred slowly in, and one teaspoonful of sugar; add the yolk of an egg; beat well together and pour in vinegar to taste. It is best eaten next day.

SOFT SOAP.—Take six gallons of soft or rain water, add three pounds of best hard soap (cut fine), one pound sal soda, four tablespoonfuls of barbershop; boil the whole till perfectly dissolved; pour into vessels, and when cold it is fit for use. This makes fifty pounds of fine jelly soap.

FRESH BISCUITS.—One coffee cup sugar, one cup butter, one cup raisins (seedless are best), one egg, three teaspoonfuls baking powder; flavor with vanilla and lemon extract to taste; the raisins to be chopped fine. Roll out and cut thin with a biscuit cutter. Bake in a dripping pan with a greased paper in the bottom of tin.

COD CUTLETS.—Steam the cod till nearly done, cut a slice and have a butter of self-raising flour ready. The butter is good when mixed with one egg and water; put the piece of fish in the batter in the pan and let it over when it sets, having first sprinkled pepper and salt on. Make the cutlets as well shaped as you can. Have potatoes cut in small balls and fried.

ICE CREAM.—To each quart of milk add four eggs and half a pound of sugar; beat whites stiff, and add. Have the milk scalding hot, pour it over the sugar and eggs beating all at the same time; then put it on the fire again and as soon as it thickens take off and strain into freezer to cool. When cold add any flavoring extract preferred, and if you wish, one pint of cream, and freeze. Mash the ice in a cloth—not too fine, of course—and mix plenty salt with it around the churn, being careful not to let salt get inside.

APPLE MARMALADE.—Pare, core and cut the apples in small pieces; put them in water with a small amount of salt to keep them white; add a short time to cook them out and drain them; weigh, and put them in a steamer with an equal quantity of sugar; add grated lemon peel, the juice of a lemon, some lemon sticks and a pinch of salt. Put the steamer over a brisk fire and cook it closely. When the apples are reduced to a pulp, stir the mixture until it becomes of a proper consistency, and put the marmalade away in small pots.

PORTABLE LEMONADE.—Press your hand on the lemon and roll it back and forth on the table to make it squeeze more easily, then press the juice into a bowl or tumbler—never use tin—strain out all the seeds, as they give a bad taste. Remove all the pulp from the peels and boil in water, a pint for a dozen peels, to remove the acid. A few minutes' boiling is enough; then strain the water with the juice of the lemons; put a pound of white sugar to a pint of the juice; boil ten minutes; bottle it, and your lemonade is ready. Put in a teaspoonful or two of this syrup into a glass of water and you have a cooling and healthful drink.

TO CLEAN WHITE SILK LACE.—The lace is stretched over small clean ships of wool to keep it evenly spread out, laid over night in warm milk, to which a little soap has been added, rinse in fresh water, laid for the same length of time in warm soap-lye, and finally rinsed without any friction. Linen lace is best cleaned by covering the outside of a large glass bottle smoothly with stout linen or white flannel, upon which the lace is sewn in a number of coils, and over the whole some coarse open flannel is secured. The bottle thus dressed is allowed to soak for a time in lukewarm soft water, and the outside wrapping is then rubbed with soap and a piece of flannel. After this the bottle is laid to sleep for some hours in clean soft water. It is then rolled between dry towels, dipped in rice-water, and rolled again. Finally the damp lace is unstuffed from the bottle and ironed between linen cloths.

HENRY'S CARBOLIC SALVE.—The BEST SALVE for the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chillsbains, Corns, and all kinds of Skin Eruptions, Freckles and Pimples.
